JANESVILLE, FRIDAY, MAY 30.

THE HAPPY DEAD.

And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yes, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them.—Rev. xiv. 13.

The memorial day is sacred to patriotism and to the memory of 500,000 men who fell in the cause of the Union, shrouded in the battle-dag of the republic. The works that men do live after them, and so we hallow the dead and have honor and cheer for their living. Those who rushed into battle for the salvation of the Nation when its life was in a balance, cannot be forgotten. It is said that thirty-five billion soldiers rest in the grave. Millions of them were brave soldiers, but fought for place, or cast or conquest as under the banners of Napoleon, of Wellington, of Nelson; but when this great nation halts to-day and strews flowers on the grave of the American soldiers, we do not think of them as mere soldiers, but as martyrs. They fought for a purpose whose influence on national life, on national progress, on national patriotism, is beyond our measurement.

When it was said in Rome that there was a chasm in the Forum, a noble Roman mounted his horse and rode boldly in loosing his own life that the chasm might be bridged. When it was said in our own land that treason had made a chasm here, one hundred thousand men sprang to arms that the chasm might be bridged, then 600,000 followed, and when they could not bridge the terrible chasm, then a million followed, and in all two millions and six hundred thousand marched on that this nation might be saved to the cause for which it was dedicated.

Think of the mothers who went down to the doors of death to open the doors of life that we might live; and then watched by our credulous and carried in their arms and baptized with their prayers and tears that we might rise into womanhood and manhood. Think of the fathers that toiled to give us bread and home. Think of our brothers and sisters who laughed and walked and played by our side. Their works for us do follow them, and we do not and cannot forget them. Think of the men who marched on Donelson, on Shiloh, on Antietam, on Malvern Hill, on Stone River, on Alsburn, on Vicksburg, on Gettysburg, through the Wilderness, on Petersburg, and on these terrible marches thousands fell, but their works do live after them, and what they accomplished for humanity is a far prouder and enduring monument than could be built of marble or bronze.

We are all passing away with the rapidity of time, and may we so live that our works may live after us, and that our memories may linger like those of the three brothers in Napoleon's body guard, two of whom dying on the field, the third returning, said to the ferryman, "Take thrice thy fee, I give it willingly; for all unseen to thee, I give it to thee for my company."

The Janesville Gazette professes to be a low tariff republican paper. Before the passage of McKinley's bill, it was pleading for a reduced tariff. Now it loudly abuses the democrats in congress for not protecting the country from Reed's quota. According to the Gazette logic, the minority is to blame for a law forced through by the majority under a "gag."

This is good, average, republican reasonableness.—Madison Democrat.

The Madison Democrat professes to be a tariff reform paper, but when the McKinley bill put the duty on sugar away down, making it practically on the free list, it abuses the committee and the republicans for voting for the reduction. The bill also reduces the duty on binding twine, and on many other articles of usefulness, and yet the Democrat keeps on pounding the republicans who voted for these important reductions. But all this is "good, average, democratic reasoning."

There are some good things in the McKinley bill, and there are some not so good, or in fact, not good at all. It is the good things the Gazette commends, and the things not good, it does not commend. This is more consistent than the course the Democrat has taken.

The Gazette hopes the senate will take the bill in hand and make some changes which seem necessary in order that both the letter and the spirit of the republican national platform may be respected, and the dominant sentiment of the party re-strengthened.

On May 15th, the school book publications previously owned by Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., of Cincinnati, and by the firm of A. J. Barnes & Co., of New York, were transferred to and became the property of the American Book Company, and the trade in this section will be supplied from the office of the company in Chicago, as well as from offices in New York and Cincinnati. The object of this organization is to save the expense of agents for the introduction of school books, and at the same time prevent a book war between the publishing houses. It is expected the books will be furnished hereafter to the trade and to private publishers cheaper than formerly; there will certainly be no increase.

The statement is made by the Milwaukee papers that the Germans, the organ of the Lutherans, declares that the Lutherans are entirely friendly to the public schools; that they believe in compulsory education; that they believe English should be taught to every child; but that the state should in no way interfere with the church schools. Well, does Lutheranism! That is just what the republicans believe in, and this is the spirit and the letter of the Beacon. So the republicans, the Lutherans, and the educational law, stand on the same platform. Thus is the republican party making rapid progress in bringing about harmony on the educational law.

The inter commerce commission has made a report showing that during the year ending June 30, 1889, there were killed on the railways of the United States 5,823 people and 25,308 were injured. Of the number killed 1,972 were employees, 310 passengers and 3,541 were denominated "other persons." Of the injured 20,028 were employees, 2,146 passengers and 4,135 other persons. The number of railway employees in the United States was given as 704,736.

That staunch old democratic war-horse—Charles W. Felker, of Oshkosh—has a courage that commands admiration. His judgment may not be worth 500 cents on the dollar when he attacks a bishop who has slandered the Masonic fraternity, but his righteous indignation is something that everybody but those who Bishop Katsar holds by the nose, will admire.

JOSH BILLINGS' PHILOSOPHY.

Vanity is the superstition of pride.

A good wife is a sweet smile from heaven.

There is no grater fan for me than tew prick a bladder. Windy folks will please make a note ov this.

I had rather be a pot-bellied scow covecumber, than a woumderly on a woumderly ripe, than tew be an old bachel-er.

I prefer an open and brass-mounted villain to a soft, timid, panting hypocrite, who is az unsafe az a sleeping snake.

Public honors in this country are quite often like the peacock's tail—first up for a spread, but after they are shut up the glory goes with the tail.

If I was going tew pick up some snake, I certainly should take hold ov the farther end ov him. This is the way I handle all ov my subjects; I find them less guarded there.

I often meet in mi travels bigoted Christians who think that they are the guardian angels ov az the virtue in the world. Such men would hav us think they are bills ov exchange on the kingdom ov heaven, when in reality they are only bogus currency, which passes among men by general consent, provided it is decently well executed.

Jennie C. Wilder, sister of Marshall P., the humorist, is said to be almost as great a success as her brother on the platform.

Miss Mary Howe, of Brattleboro, Vt., is spoken of by a Boston journal as another Gertrude. "She has a brilliant and flexible pliancy of voice," the editor says, "and sings coloratura music."

The ex-Empress Eugenie devotes most of her time to the preparation of a memorial volume, containing the letters of her husband and son, and the proceeds from the sale of which will go to the relief of widows made by the war of 1870.

The Queen of Spain's secret of success is explained by a Spanish statesman. "She is the opposite of an intriguing woman," he says. "She tells no falsehoods, has nothing of the hypocrite about her, is as simple and modest as she is honest, and there is nobody in Spain who is not convinced that she tries to do her best for the country. Natural tact, intelligence, and kindness are also among the weapons by which Christine maintains her position."

SENATE LIQUOR BILL.

All Distilled or Fermented Spirits are Subject to the Laws and Control of States.

THE "ORIGINAL PACKAGE" BUSINESS KNOCKED OUT.

Imported Liquors to be Subject to State Laws—Not News From the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—In the Senate the bill subjecting imported liquors to the provisions of the laws of the several States was again taken up, the question being of the following substitute offered by Mr. Gray to the substitute reported by the Judiciary committee:

That fermented, distilled, or other intoxicating liquors transferred as an article of commerce or brought into any State or Territory from a point or place outside of such State or Territory for use, consumption, or sale therein, shall not be exempt, nor shall the owner or person in possession thereof be exempt, from the operation of the laws of, or the regulations, control, police, or the taxing power of such State or Territory affecting or applicable to all other or like property, by reason of such liquors being in the original package of importation or transportation as subjects of inter-State or foreign commerce. The substitute was adopted.

Mr. Vest moved to amend the substitute just adopted by making it apply to fresh beef, veal, mutton, lamb and pork, and argued that if the bill was to become a law it should not be confined to intoxicating liquors.

The vote on Mr. Vest's amendment was—yeas, 5; nays, 3 (the affirmative votes being given by Messrs. Call, Morgan, Payne, Stewart, and Vest). There was no quorum voting, but Mr. Vest withdrew his demand for the yeas and nays, and his amendment was disregarded.

Mr. Wilson of Iowa offered a substitute for Mr. Gray's amendment providing that liquors transported into any State or Territory for use, consumption, or sale (or storage) shall, on their arrival, be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State or Territory enacted in the exercise of its police powers, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of their being introduced in the original packages. Mr. Wilson's substitute was adopted—yeas, 24; nays, 30. The bill was then passed—yeas, 34; nays, 16. It reads:

"That all fermented, distilled or other intoxicating liquors or liquids transported into any State or Territory for use, consumption, sale or storage shall, on arrival in such State or Territory (or remaining therein) be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State or Territory enacted in the exercise of its police powers to the same extent and in the same manner as though such liquors or liquids had been produced in such State or Territory, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced in original packages or otherwise."

The vote in detail on the passage of the bill is as follows:

YEAS.

Allen, George, Platt, Allison, Hawley, Plumb, Blair, Hiram, Russell, Call, Hoar, Tamm, Casey, Ingalls, Sawyer, Culbert, Jones (Nev.), Spooner, Edmunds, Mitchell, Stewart, Dixon, Morrill, Wilson (Ia.), Edwards, —34.

YEAS.

Bate, Harris, Vance, Blodgett, Jones (Ark.), Vest, Cockrell, Turpie, Voorhees, Coke, —16.

Recapitulation—Yeas, Republicans, 29; Democrats, 5. Nays, Republicans, 6; Democrats, 10.

Mr. Voorhees moved to amend the title making it read:

"A bill to overrule the decision of the Supreme court of the United States in its interpretation and construction of the constitution on the subject of commerce between the several States, and thereby relieve the State of Iowa from the consequences of her own misguided legislation."

The amendment was rejected—yeas, 6; nays, 37.

The river and harbor appropriation bill was received from the House and referred to the committee on commerce.

After a brief executive session the Senate adjourned till Monday.

HONOR TO DEAD HEROES

The Memorial Day Exercises in the City this Morning and Afternoon.

PLACING FLAGS ON THE HIGH AND CENTRAL SCHOOLS.

The Day Generally Observed in All Parts of the City—Flags at Half Mast and Streets Decorated.

Memorial day was fittingly celebrated in the city by the citizens as well as the various military and civic societies of this city. The merchants closed their respective places from one until four in the afternoon and most of them displayed the nation's colors—red, white and blue.

This morning the Patriotic Order, Sons of America placed a flag upon the High School building with appropriate ceremonies.

The members of the order formed at Liberty Hall on East Milwaukee Street at ten o'clock, and headed by the Bower City Band, marched to the Post Hall of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R. Here the veterans were drawn up in open order, the band and Sons of America to march through their ranks. The Grand Army then fell in at the rear and marched to the armory of the Janesville Light Infantry and met the firing squad of that company consisting of eight men under command of Sgt. George R. Allen.

The procession then formed in the following order, and marched to the High School.

Marshals J. B. Green, Byron Fields and W. W. Williams.

Bower City Band.

Firing Squad Janesville Light Infantry.

Grand Army of the Republic.

Patriotic Order Sons of America.

The line of march was down Milwaukee Street to Main, down Main to Court, up Court to Wisconsin up Wisconsin to the school ground.

Arriving at the school building the different organizations formed in a square with the firing squad in the center. The band struck up "Red White and Blue" after which Mr. E. R. Inman, president of the Patriotic Order Sons of America stepped forward and made the presentation speech. Mr. Inman said:

"Mr. President and the school board of the city of Janesville: It is with a good deal of pride that I present to you in behalf of the Washington Camp No. 1, Patriotic Order Sons of America this flag of our country; this is the most fitting time of the year in which to raise it; not only because it is Memorial day, but because the whole of nature is beginning to spring forth in bloom, not because this is the first time that a flag of our country has floated over a school building in the city and perhaps in the state, but because we hope that these days we now so joyously celebrating will grow and blossom on to you, Mr. Superintendent, we hope that the care of this emblem and flag that its influence will be felt by the scholars in the school."

The flag was then run up, a bugle call was sounded, the music was fired, and the flag floated to the breeze, and the band played "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Ogden B. Fether in behalf of the school board, then accepted the flag in a brief word. In the course of his remarks he said:

"Members of the Patriotic Order Sons of America; it is an honor that I appreciate to be delegated to accept on behalf of the school board this symbol of our independence. The flag has always been an emblem of strength in the war and none the less in times of peace."

Mr. Stewart accepted the charge of the flag and thanked the donors for the gift.

The bugle again sounded and the flag came down at half mast. The procession then formed and marched to the exhibition hall.

The flag is a beauty, regulation size fourteen feet long. Quite a crowd congregated at the school grounds to view the impressive service and listen to the exercises.

This afternoon.

The procession formed at the court house park at 1:30 o'clock, and marched in the following order:

Platoon of Fire Police and Patrol Wagon.

Knights of Pythias on Horseback.

Speaker, Chaplain, Reader and President of the Day.

The procession occupied several blocks and made a very good showing. The Light Infantry were out in force in command of Capt. Koebelin.

At the cemetery the exercises opened by music by the Bower City Band, after which there was a prayer by the chaplain, Rev. Dr. Hodges.

Dr. J. B. Whiting, president of the day, then made a few remarks suitable to the occasion.

A chorus by twenty young ladies in charge of Mrs. S. S. Lovejoy then sang "Star Spangled Banner."

The chorus was composed of the following young ladies: Misses Belle Loucks, Jennie Rowe, Nellie Gately, Aggie McVicker, Jessie Conger, Gertrude McGuire, Margaret Joyce, Grace Wright, Grace Mead, Katie Byers, Maud Nowlin, Ruth Culver, Katie Carpenter, Nellie Mosely, Annie Brown, Maud Ward, Cora Anderson, Dollie Best, Lou Palmer and Lucy Walsh, with Miss Amy Bowles as organist.

A selected reading by Mr. J. B. Day was next on the programme and was, as usual, well received.

Mr. James W. Buss of Fond du Lac was then introduced by the president of day, Dr. J. B. Whiting, and delivered elaborate address:

Mr. Buss began his address by saying that a little over a quarter of a century ago the destinies of our country hung tremulously in the balance. Today standing secure under the flag of the strongest government the world has seen, we look back upon that momentous time almost as though it were a dream. In all ages it has been recognized as a sacred obligation to keep forever green the memories of those who died for their country. It was the custom of it is commonwealth of Athens to commemorate upon the battle-field of Marathon, the heroes who had died for the state. It was on such a day that Pericles pronounced that immortal eulogy which remained unvaried until Abraham Lincoln commemorated at Gettysburg the dead who died for the same great cause.

Looking down upon Napoleon's sarcophagus in the Invalides, we see all that remains or that reminds us of the great armies he commanded. For the thousands who perished to satisfy the ambition of this man, there is no tear, no garland, no eulogy to immortalize the memory of their deeds. But here was a people devoted to peace and material pursuits, forsaking they gave themselves to the cause of their country. With 4,000,000 of slaves committed to their charge they lifted them to manhood and civilization. On this memorial day when the fountains of patriotism are stirred and our hearts are filled with appreciation of the blessings of freedom and union purchased at such a cost of blood and treasure, it is wise for the citizens to scan the horizon and see if there be any peril which threaten the nation to save her from which, she has a right to appeal to her citizens. On this day when we renew our vows of devotion to our native land beside the flower-covered graves of those who gave their lives for their country, the faithful sentinel, scanning the future with earnest and watchful eyes, will recall the careless citizen to a sense of the duty he owes to his country.

The speaker then discussed the question of capital and labor, saying the events of the past year showed that there is a strong and rapidly growing antagonism all over the land between labor and capital which threatens to disturb our nation's peace. "In a country like ours," he remarked, "where the government is of the people, by the people and for the people, and where the humblest son of toil stands at the ballot box the peer of the most pampered possessor of wealth and luxury, loyalty to law is the nation's only safeguard."

After showing from what nationalities the great army of patriots was made, and complimenting them for their valor and devotion, Mr. Buss concluded: Fellow citizens: On this Memorial day let us renew our vows of fealty to our country. Let our children learn by these ceremonies the priceless value of their heritage. Let sons and daughters of the republic this day catch an inspiration which shall feed the holy fire of liberty in their hearts, and so from generation to generation the flower-covered graves of patriots shall be the stepping stones along which our nation shall advance with giant strides to the perfection of its development and the fulfillment of its destiny.

The address was followed by music by the Bower City Band, after which a number of little girls under the supervision of Miss Ella Willis conducted an exercise in concert at the cemetery and also at the Grand Army Hall.

Clara Boyles, Dollie Geill, Irene Bennett, Iva Downes, Stella Throckmold, Edna Carter, Ella Fenton, Fannie Lee, Mabel Church, Alice Bliss, Belle Lippert, Ella Stedfield, Lulu Whiting, Ella Case, Vinnie Carl, Bessie Church, Jennie Boyes, Fannie Stewart, Gertrude McDonald and Katie Fenton.

The decoration of the graves was performed by five divisions in charge of members of the Post. The guides and assistants were as follows:

First Division—W. W. Wille, Ella Sappell and Lew Tramballe.

Second Division—J. G. Gray, A. A. Hadley and Geo. P. Tels.

Third Division—C. J. Schottel, John Lee and John Krane.

Fourth Division—C. E. Bowles, Robt. Scott and E. H. Pelton.

Fifth Division—Patrick Delaney, Patrick Ford and Neil Gillespie.

Improvement on the old way this was a new arrangement and of having little girls do the decorating.

The day was remarkably fine being clear and warm, there were many people in the city. A large crowd viewed the procession and the attendance at the cemetery was also large.

TRIED TO WHIP CERN. EARLY.

The ex-Confederate Officer Assailed for Calling Longstreet a Rascal.

RICHMOND, Va., May 29.—Gen. John A. Early, while engaged in a hot discussion of war issues at the Exchange, was approached by a stranger who slapped him on the shoulder and remarked: "My dear Gen. Longstreet, how do you do?" Early astonished his visitor by exclaiming savagely: "I want nothing to do with a man who mistakes me for such a d—d rascal as James Earl Longstreet." A friend of the latter who was standing by demanded a retraction. Early refused, whereupon Longstreet's friend made a lunge for Early, but the latter was protected by friends long enough to escape.
